The final club hill climb of 2018 brought a sunny evening with a light westerly. There were lots of helpers and an exclusive field of riders, including newcomer Blair Cartmell who had much drama: a broken chain during the warm up meant a 2km walk back to Cleish. He declared he was not going to cycle, but the reappearance of Ross Turner with the offer of a bike and a set of shoes shamed him into a hasty departure and a very respectable time. We hope to see you again Blair.

There were some good times on the night and Frank Chalmers was delighted with his sub-ten time. Rory Maddocks and Hazel Golda were also very pleased to see new personal best times on the course. The biggest news of the night though was a NEW COURSE RECORD from Richard Sanderson who took 10 seconds off the record with his time of 7:32. Great riding Richard: well done!

Thanks to Ginny who came down from Pitlochry to suss us out a bit more tonight, and to help us with marshalling. And big thanks as always to everyone who helped out and supported the event. What a team!
